

R-045

Trinity Lutheran Church Dundee, Wisconsin Death Register, 1881-1929

Entered on computer by S. Connie Halbur, April, 2005

Notes by S. Connie Halbur: The records in this register indicate that many of the people of the parish came from "Pommern" (Pomerania), a section of northern Germany – or Poland – depending on the time period. The area was part of Poland for many centuries, but many German people lived there, to the degree that it was often culturally more German than Polish. It was taken over by Prussia in the three major "partitions" which occurred during the 18th and 19th centuries. At that time, Russia, Prussia, and Austria took over much of western Europe. Over the centuries, borders and control had shifted again and again, as a result of marriages between monarchs and as a result of wars, especially World War I and World War II.

Pomerania was a "province", which is comparable to a state in the US. It was divided into administrative districts similar to our counties. The German word for these districts is "Kreis". The word "Kreis" is not part of the name of the town. Example: Leckow Kreis Schiefelbein Pommern Germany. Leckow is the name of the town. It is in Schiefelbein (Schievelbein) County, Pomerania, Germany.

*The spelling of some of the Pomeranian place names in the records below is questionable. Many of the spellings cannot be found in a modern Atlas of that area. Possibly the person who copied the register into the notebook which constitutes R-045 had difficulty deciphering the writing. Furthermore, in some cases, the name had actually been changed from a Slavic name to a German name, and to a Slavic name again. Researchers are referred to the following web site for a fairly detailed history of Pomerania, and on the districts whose names you will see in the records below. <http://www.neohumanism.org/p/po/pomerania.html>. A map of Pomerania can be found at <http://www.genemaas.net/images/Pommern1913.gif>. For the convenience of onsite users, the map of Pomerania from this web site has been inserted in the front of the notebook. Another helpful web site deals with the names of towns in that area of Europe, including Pomerania. Even with only a few letters of a town name, it is possible to find the one from which your ancestor came. The web address is: <http://www.kartenmeister.com/preview/databaseuwe.asp>. An example: One record shows that the person was born in Gliezig Naugard Pommern. A search using Gliezig produced no matches. However, this program allows for the use of wild cards. Entering Gliezig as zig produced four matches, all in the county (Kreis) of Naugard. The –zig was retained because it is a common ending for a town name in that part of Germany. The most likely of the four is Glietzig.

Abbreviation: Trinity Cemetery Dundee, or Trinity Lutheran Cemetery Dundee are often abbreviated here as TCD or TLCD.

*Translation of a few German words commonly used in the record:
Kreis = an administrative district roughly the same as our counties
Dorf or dorfe = town or village. In this document, it is often found at the end of the town name. Example: Naschendorf =the village of Naschen
Provinz = province. Similar to our states in the US*

[Sic] means that there appears to be an error, but the data was copied as written.

The list will be given in two arrangements:

- As recorded in the register, which is basically chronological
- In alphabetical order
